Author Index: Volumes VI-X

Winter, 1984—Fall, 1988

Amick, R. D. (with Greenan, J.P.). (1986). Needs of vocational programs in teaching interpersonal skills. 8, 25-32.

Anderson, J. D. (1988). Issues in vocational education: A reaction. 10, 402-406.

Andrews, S. B., & Miller, H. G. (1985). Expanding market share: The role of American corporations in technical assistance. 7, 261-268.

Armistead, L. (with Vogler, D. E.). (1987). The importance of general education courses and competencies as viewed by community college occupational students. 9, 191-200.

Bailey, L. J. (with Doty, L. A.). (1984). A follow-up study of campus and military-based industrial technology graduates. 6, 32-41.

Baker, S. (1986). A curriculum model for a health program requiring internship. 8, 223-230.

Baker, S. A. (1987). Descriptive data on small hospitals and their technical laboratory personnel. 9, 45-50.

Ballestro, S. (with Perreault, H.). (1988). Employee involvement: An ergonomic key. 10, 81-87.

Barnes, T. L. (1986). How to muddle through with purpose—managing in a turbulent environment. 8, 159-166.

Barton, S. (1987). The competencies, training loci, job qualifications, and company training of word processing operators. 8, 11-23.

Beck, R. H. (1988). Education, training, and beyond. 10, 336-348.

Beebe, J., & Sutton, J. (1985). Computer interfacing for power and energy laboratories. 7, 277-284.

Bennett, W. J. (1985). Readiness for work, readiness for life. 7, 137-142.

Berthelot, R. J. (1988). Statistical process control: The competitive edge. 10, 125-135.

Bilderback, G. W., & Leitzel, T. C. (1988). Project STATUS: A synergistic approach. 10, 228-238.

Birkenholz, R. J., & Kahler, A. A. (1985). Evaluation of an agriculture/agribusiness management instructional unit. 7, 241-248.

Blai, B. (1984). Job skills, overeducated workers: An imbalance. 6, 230-238.

Boatright, J. (with Crowley, J.). (1988). Economic development: A community college faces the challenge. 10, 201-205.

Boldrey, T. (1984). Computer industry technology: A partnership that works. 6, 313-317.

Bowman, T. S. (1987). Aviation-safety courses within the collegiate aviation curriculum. 9, 31-44.

Bowman, T. S. (with NewMyer, D. A.). (1984). Linkages between the Federal Aviation Administration and postsecondary aviation education: The case of Southern Illinois University. 6, 261-268.

Boyum, P. (with Shea, M. L., & Spanke, M.). (1985). A theory of learning styles: Application in the clinical setting. 7, 291-298.

Bradley, M. J. (1986). Assuring competence after licensure. 8, 167-170.

Branson, B. S. (with Elliott, J. R., & McMurry, W. S.). (1984). Allergic consideration in chemoprophylaxis for bacterial endocarditis. 6, 224-229.

Brauchle, P. E. (1984). The case for type 2 error: A researcher's view of power in statistical tests. 6, 162-169.

Brauchle, P. E. (1984). The JTPA connection for partnerships in job training: Observations and case study. 6, 301-305.

Brauchle, P. E. (with Schell, J. W.). (1986). Time and cost effective process evaluation for employment and training programs. 8, 281-293.

Brown, J. M., Kayser, T. F., & Smith, B. B. (1988). Are vocational special needs issues related to the concept of equity in education? 10, 357-371.

Browning, D. A. (with Greenan, J. P.). (1987). The validation of generalizable communication skills assessment instrument for students with handicapping conditions. 9, 201-215.

Burge, P. L. (with Culver, S. M.). (1985). Expected occupational prestige of students in vocational programs nontraditional for their sex. 7, 231-240.

Burge, P. L. (with Cunningham, P. L.). (1984). International home economics students critique U. S. collegiate programs. 6, 170-176.

Burger, L. T. (1988). A statewide model for a systemwide community college economic development program. 10, 157-165.

Burns, T. (1988). Views of a maquila manager. 10, 198-200.

Butler, A. J., & Pietak, R. A. (1984). COMPETE: A community college response to helping high school graduates help themselves. 6, 51-56.

Butler, A. J., & Pietak, R. A. (1985). Helping high school graduates help themselves. 7, 6-14.

Butler, R. L. (1986). Observations on apprenticeships, entrepreneurships, and intrapreneurships. 8, 253-259.

Butler, R. L. (1987). Coordination for workplace education. 9, 151-154.

Campbell, C. P. (with Petty, G. C.). (1986). Work attitudes of health occupations and other trades and industries teachers. 8, 273-279.

Cantor, J. A. (1984). The concerns-based adoption model: Implications for institutionalization of change in technical training programs. 6, 205-213.

Cantor, J. A. (1985). JTPA supports the shipbuilding industry. 7, 205-213.

Cantor, J. A. (1987). A systems approach to instructional development in technical education. 9, 155-166.

Casebeer, A. L. (with Zeigler, D.). (1986). Telecommunications delivery: A must for higher education. 8, 33-43.

Casey, J. P. (with Pape, C. D.). (1986). A retrospective view of selective admission of physical therapist assistants. 8, 105-112.

Chalupsky, A. B. (with Clark, D. M., & Dalldorf, M. R.). (1986). Increasing collaboration between vocational education and the defense establishment. 8, 325-334.

Chervokas, J. (1987). Plain English and creativity in advertising. 9, 26-29.

Cisneros, H. (1985). Changes as they affect communications, governmental agencies, and technical education. 7, 1-5.

Clark, D. M. (1984). The industry-education structure and process for fostering education reform. 6, 247-249.

Clark, D. M., Chalupsky, A. B., & Dalldorf, M. R. (1986). Increasing collaboration between vocational education and the defense establishment. 8, 325-334.

Clarke, R. G. (with Kopecek, R. J.). (1984). The career education cooperative: Area vocational technical schools and a community college can work together effectively. 6, 57-62.

Clowes, D. A. (with Levin, B. H.). (1987). Competition between community colleges and postsecondary proprietary schools: Reality or myth? 9, 317-324.

Collins, D. A. (1987). Plain English in warranties. 9, 10-13.

Condreay, E. S., & Sutton, J. R. (1984). The case for faculty currency. 6, 296-300.

Copa, G. (1988). On the meaning of "vocational" education. 10, 286-304.

Crowley, J., & Boatright, J. (1988). Economic development: A community college faces the challenge. 10, 201-205.

Culver, S. M., & Burge, P. L. (1985). Expected occupational prestige of students in vocational programs nontraditional for their sex. 7, 231-240.

Cunningham, D. H. (1985). Making connections between the classroom and the workplace. 7, 221-230.

Cunningham, D. L., & Burge, P. L. (1984). International home economics students critique U. S. collegiate programs. 6, 170-176.

Dalldorf, M. R. (with Clark, D. M., & Chalupsky, A. B.). (1986). Increasing collaboration between vocational education and the defense establishment. 8, 325-334.

Dambrot, F. H. (with Reep, D. C.). (1987). Having it all? Career conflicts for television's professional women. 9, 217-223.

Daniel, D. J. (1987). Nontraditional and traditional education, not a polarity. 9, 135-139.

Dary, D. K. (with Luterbach, E. J.). (1988). Partnerships in economic development. 10, 259-264.

Davey, J., & Jellech, V. (1984). A linkage between education and industry in computer-aided design and drafting instruction. 6, 292-295.

Davis, D., & Morgan, B. (1985). Program for advanced curriculum entry: A two-year degree in one. 7, 113-117.

Davis, P. D. (with Wilson, R. C.). (1985). The prediction of success in engineering graphics using the group embedded figures test and the hidden figures test. 7, 65-72.

Day, P. R. (1984). Developing customized programs for steel and other heavy industries: A case study. 6, 269-277.

Denton, D. K. (1987). Applied projects: A boon for business and education. 9, 73-82.

DiCicco, W. J. (1985). Supporting hearing-impaired students in postsecondary accounting classes. 7, 285-290.

Dick, C. T. (with Meadors, A. C.). (1987). Nurses as managers: Alternatives to conflict. 9, 61-64.

Dickey, K. W. (1986). Survey of infection control policies within dental/educational patient treatment centers. 8, 98-104.

Dickinson, B. C. (1987). The role of the state approving agency. 9, 273-279.

Dillon, L. S. (1984). The hidden factors behind Japan's highly productive management methods. 6, 122-131.

Dillon, L. S. (1985). Some beliefs shared by the Japanese people: Implications for the workplace. 7, 118-124.

Dorn, J. H. (with Sharma, M. P., & Klasek, C. B.). (1987). How United States students perceive academic and nonacademic needs of international students. 9, 297-315.

Doty, C. R. (1985). Vertical articulation of occupational education from secondary schools to community colleges. 7, 98-112.

Doty, L. A., & Bailey, L. J. (1984). A follow-up study of campus and military-based industrial technology graduates. 6, 32-41.

Douglas, B. E. (1986). Relationships among the armed services vocational aptitude battery (ASVAB) and the PSAT, SAT, and ACT. 8, 199-207.

Duenk, L. G. (1987). A new look at performance objectives in trade and technical education. 9, 255-266.

Dunifon, W. S. (1984). The best of times—the worst of times: A new day for educators. 6, 81-85.

Dunlap, W. S. (1984). The future of technical careers. 6, 150-154.

Dunn, B. P., & Hoerner, J. L. (1984). Management practices associated with effective postsecondary general advisory committees for occupational education. 6, 282-291.

Dunn, J. A. (1988). The future of secondary school vocational education: Curriculum reform or retrenchment—basic academic or technical skills. 10, 372-383.

Duo, J. F., & Yuen, C. Y. (1985). A challenge: Encouraging students to enter nontraditional vocational programs. 7, 25-33.

Echternacht, L. (1984). Microcomputer instructional competencies: A ranking by business teachers. 6, 105-111.

Elias, J. E. (with Holmes, W. S.). (1986). An evaluation of the Missouri Career Association by first-year participants. 8, 133-144.

Elliott, J. R., Branson, B. S., & McMurry, W. S. (1984). Allergic consideration in chemoprophylaxis for bacterial endocarditis. 6, 224-229.

Eschenmann, K. K. (1986). Occupational analysis: A technique for developing task lists. 8, 231-238.

Eschenmann, K. K. (1987). Motivating cooperative education students on the job. 9, 339-344.

Evans, R. N. (1988). Creaming, dredging, and labeling: Federal policy for training workers. 10, 349-356.

Fardig, G. E. (with Lange, R. R., & Sorg, S. E.). (1987). Barriers and policy solutions for statewide implementation of competency-based vocational education. 8, 80-88.

Felsenfeld, C. (1987). The past, present, and future of plain English. 9, 1-5.

Ferketich, R. R. (1984). Tool and manufacturing programs for today's high technology manufacturing industries. 6, 63-66.

Fish, J. S. (1987). The blurring of the English language. 9, 6-9.

Fleischman, B. (1984). Technical colleges join rapid response team to lessen effects of plant closings in South Carolina. 6, 257-260.

Frost, J. (1988). Transformation of American industry: Statistical process control. 10, 145-149.

Ghanatabadi, J., & Saylor, C. (1988). Design and delivery of customized training programs for new and expanding business and industry. 10, 250-258.

Gilli, A. C. (1984). Vocational education and high-technology, 6, 187-197.

Giovannini, M., & Miller, F. M. (1984). Teaching business communications: A comparison of teaching by the traditional writing and the word processing methods. 6, 21-28.

Godia, G. (1986). Educational expansion and economic development in Kenya. 8, 61-72.

Grace, L. (1986). Organizational climate: An analysis of factors and influences. 8, 209-222.

Gravlin, B. J. (1988). Technical writing in a distributed word processing environment. 10, 73-79.

Gray, L. L. (1987). Plain English in owner manuals and user guides. 9, 17-19.

Greathouse, L. R., & Karmos, J. S. (1987). A new look at two established teaching methods: Case studies and role playing. 9, 361-367.

Greenan, J. P. (1984). The construct of generalizable skills for assessing the functional learning abilities of students in vocational-technical programs. 6, 91-104.

Greenan, J. P. (1985). The least restrictive environment in vocational-technical education: Theory and practice. 7, 179-188.

Greenan, J. P., & Amick, R. D. (1986). Needs of vocational programs in teaching interpersonal skills. 8, 25-32.

Greenan, J. P., & Browning, D. A. (1987). The validation of generalizable communication skills assessment instruments for students with handicapping conditions. 9, 201-215.

Greenberg, J. A. (1984). Emerging patterns of cooperative arrangements. 6, 250-256.

Greenwood, K. B. (1988). The liberating versus controlling arguments about vocational education: How relevant to the future? 10, 273-285.

Grise, K. (with Hays, D.). (1985). Short-term foreign travel/study. 7, 34-41.

Hahn, D. (with Reneau, F. W., Legacy, J., & Stitt, T.). (1985). An analysis of the computer equipment repair occupation in Illinois. 7, 161-172.

Hale, L., & Reily, J. (1986). Are vocational teachers technologically up to date? 8, 317-323.

Harwood, R. F. (1986). The business of the mountain climbing business. 8, 343-347.

Hays, D., & Grise, K. (1985). Short-term foreign travel/study. 7, 34-41.

Hedberg, R. (1987). Technical education in a society of systems. 9, 181-189.

Heiman, T. (with Stewart, B. R.). (1986). A study of articulation: Secondary and postsecondary programs of vocational agriculture in Missouri. 8, 113-121.

Hillison, J. (1984). Using student organizations in postsecondary technical education. 6, 219-223.

Hoerner, J. L. (with Dunn, B. P.). (1984). Management practices associated with effective postsecondary general advisory committees for occupational education. 6, 282-291.

Holcomb, J. D. (with Thomson, W. A., & Miller, L.M.). (1987). Enhancing career opportunities for students in the health professions through high school apprentice programs. 9, 113-124.

Holmes, W. S., & Elias, J. E. (1986). An evaulation of the Missouri Career Association by first-year participants. 8, 133-144.

Hughes, S. J. (1987). Billing in plain English. 9, 14-16.

Hyatt, K. (1987). Effective technical communication: Issues and objectives. 9, 225-231.

Illich, I. (1988). Questioning modern certainties. 10, 1-5.

Jarczewski, P. H. (1986). The paradoxical role of the department chair. 8, 249-252.

Jellech, V. (with Davey, J.). (1984). A linkage between education and industry in computer-aided design and drafting instruction. 6, 292-295.

Johnson, B. E. (1984). Surveying gifted students for high technology programs. 6, 86-90.

Jones, B. (trans.) (with Schlict, M., author). (1986). Lifelong learning: Further education in the Federal Republic of Germany. 8, 175-197.

Juni, S., & Katz, B. (1985). "Seek and ye shall find . . . What?" An investigation of the process of applying for vocational services. 7, 249-260.

Justiz, M. J. (1984). Emerging themes and new partnerships for educational research in the eighties. 6, 1-9.

Kadunc, N. J. (1987). Psychological attributes of training professionals and their preferences for project and organizational characteristics. 9, 325-338.

Kahler, A. A. (with Birkenholz, R. J.). (1985). Evaluation of an agriculture/agribusiness management instructional unit. 7, 241-248.

Kantor, H. (1988). Whither vocational education? 10, 389-395.

Karmos, J. S. (with Greathouse, L. R.). (1987). A new look at two established teaching methods: Case studies and role playing. 9, 361-367.

Katz, B. (with Juni, S.). (1985). "Seek and ye shall find . . . What?" An investigation of the process of applying for vocational services. 7, 249-260.

Keeling, J. K. (1985). Taming economics and democracy: A crucial task for education. 7, 59-64.

Kercher, M. A. (1986). Uses of the occupational data analysis system. 8, 145-150.

Kimondollo, P. M. (1987). Needs assessment for effective planning of curricula in dental technology education. 9, 281-295.

Klasek, C. B. (with Sharma, M. P.). (1986). Does the involvement of American institutions of higher education in international programs abroad affect the international attitudes of American students? 8, 295-305.

Klasek, C. B. (with Sharma, M. P., & Dorn, J. H.). (1987). How United States students perceive academic and nonacademic needs of international students. 9, 297-315.

Klein, F. (1985). The partnership between U. S. higher education and developing countries' needs: Fact or fiction? 7, 42-48.

Kogoe, A. (1985). Trends and issues in vocational technical education in Francophone West Africa. 7, 81-90.

Kopecek, R. J., & Clarke, R. G. (1984). The career education cooperative: Area vocational technical schools and a community college can work together effectively. 6, 57-62.

Kozlowski, D. (1988). Developing a regional economic development agency. 10, 167-170.

Lange, R. R., Fardig, G. E., & Sorg, S. E. (1987). Barriers and policy solutions for statewide implementation of comptency-based vocational education. 8, 80-88.

Legacy, J. (with Reneau, F. W., Hahn, D., & Stitt, T.). (1985). An analysis of the computer equipment repair occupation in Illinois. 7, 161-172.

Leitzel, T. C. (with Bilderback, G. W.). (1988). Project STATUS: A synergistic approach. 10, 228-238.

Levin, B. H., & Clowes, D. A. (1987). Competition between community colleges and postsecondary proprietary schools: Reality or myth? 9, 317-324.

Long, J. P. (with Zahniser, G.). (1984). Microcomputers in vocational education: Current and future uses. 6, 132-141.

Luterbach, E. J., & Dary, D. K. (1988). Partnerships in economic development. 10, 259-264.

Magruder, D. R. (1988). Community college and business partnerships: A statewide model skills program. 10, 239-249.

Maidment, F. (1988). University-based executive education: A study of clientele at graduate colleges of business administration. 10, 31-38.

Marden-Stephens, J. (1987). Benefits of plain English to utilities. 9, 20-22.

Mayo, N. B. (with Willis, C. L.). (1988). Determining future job requirements by adapting strategic planning to curriculum revision. 10, 215-227.

McCarthy, J. F. (1984). Building public/private training: Partnerships with community colleges. 6, 278-281.

McGrath, M. J. (1987). Plain English helps the financial services industry. 9, 23-25.

McKerrow, K. (1987). Psycho-organizational change: A new perspective for the change agent. 9, 125-133.

McLeod, M. W., & Lemons, W. L. (1985). A technical administrator's list for program cost control. 7, 215-219.

McMurry, W. S. (with Elliott, J. R., & Branson, B. S.). (1984). Allergic consideration in chemoprophylaxis for bacterial endocarditis. 6, 224-229.

Meadors, A. C. (1984). The role of baccalaureate programs in health services administration. 6, 214-218.

Meadors, A. C., & Dick, C. T. (1987). Nurses as managers: Alternatives to conflict. 9, 61-64.

Merritt, E. H. (with Miller, H. G.). (1985). Technical assistance projects in developing countries: The role of public universities. 7, 73-80.

Mihelich, A. L. (1988). The community college as an economic center: An umbrella model. 10, 171-177.

Mihelich, A. L. (1988). An exemplary dislocated worker center. 10, 206-214.

Miller, F. M. (with Giovannini, M.). (1984). Teaching business communications: A comparison of teaching by the traditional writing and the word processing methods. 6, 21-28.

Miller, H. G. (1984). Higher education for employment: Curricular dynamics for emerging careers. 6, 155-161.

Miller, H. G., & Merritt, E. H. (1985). Technical assistance projects in developing countries: The role of public universities. 7, 73-80.

Miller, H. G., & Reeder, R. C. (1987). Promoting the indigenous private sector in developing countries: The role of higher education. 9, 51-59.

Miller, H. G., & Sharma, M. (1986). The sharing of higher education: Learning structures in technical education. 8, 239-247.

Miller, H. G. (with Andrews, S. B.). (1985). Expanding market share: The role of American corporations in technical assistance. 7, 261-268.

Miller, L. M. (with Thomson, W. A., & Holcomb, J. D.). (1987). Enhancing career opportunities for students in the health professions through high school apprentice programs. 9, 113-124.

Mims, R. C., & Varney, H. E. (1986). A baccalaureate program designed primarily for associate degree graduates and nontraditional learners. 8, 151-157.

Mohamed, D. A., & Passmore, D. L. (1984). Perception of student rewards by vocational students and teachers. 6, 29-31.

Moore, J. R. (with Taylor, E. L.). (1986). Nontechnical patient care issues and skills: A course proposal for allied health education. 8, 307-316.

Morgan, B. (with Davis, D.). (1985). Program for advanced curriculum entry: A two-year degree in one. 7, 113-117.

Morgan, F. L. (with Skrzekut-Ahlgreen, A. M. E., & Troutt, E. D.). (1984). The cooperative effort: Health facilities/JTPA/higher education. 6, 306-312.

Mrescher, R. I. (1986). GLOBUS takes off into the future: Initial simulations with world model computer. 8, 1-4.

Mundhenk, R. T. (1988). Community colleges as catalysts in economic development. 10, 107-116.

NCOE Task Force, Report of the. (1988). Community colleges and economic development. 10, 91-106.

Nelson, E. A., & Pautler, A. J. (1988). A framework for developing vocational education theory and practice. 10, 326-335.

NewMyer, D. A. (1988). An analysis of the perceptions of aviation educators concerning nonengineering master's degrees in aviation. 10, 17-30.

NewMyer, D. A., & Bowman, T. S. (1984). Linkages between the Federal Aviation Administration and postsecondary aviation education: The case of Southern Illinois University. 6, 261-268.

NewMyer, D. A. (with Vitello, E. M., & Stivers, C. G.). (1985). Evaluative ratings of adjunct faculty vs. regular faculty. 7, 143-152.

Noel, R. (with Reneau, F. W.). (1986). Tasks performed by computerized-numerical control programmers and operators. 8, 45-52.

Olsen, R., & Roy, W. (1987). Criteria for selecting CAD/CAM systems. 9, 233-240.

Orr, J. (1985). Women as managers: An overview. 7, 173-178.

Oscarson, D. J. (1985). Electronic spreadsheets: A means for improving managerial techniques. 7, 125-132.

Owen, D. S. (1987). A learning assistance program for students of technical colleges. 9, 65-72.

Painter, C. M. (1985). A survey of communications skills needed on-the-job by technical students. 7, 153-160.

Pape, C. D., & Casey, J. P. (1986). A retrospective view of selective admission of physical therapist assistants. 8, 105-112.

Passmore, D. L. (1988). Issues in vocational education: A reaction. 10, 396-401.

Passmore, D. L. (with Mohamed, D. A.). (1984). Perception of student rewards by vocational students and teachers. 6, 29-31.

Pautler, A. J. (1985). Secondary vocation education at the crossroads. 7, 91-97.

Pautler, A. J. (1986). School reform: What about vocational education at the secondary level? 8, 91-97.

Pautler, A., Rouda, S., & Thompson, J. (1988). Postsecondary technical education: The proprietary sector. 10, 61-71.

Perreault, H., & Ballestro, S. (1988). Employee involvement: An ergonomic key. 10, 81-87.

Petty, G. C., & Campbell, C. P. (1986). Work attitudes of health occupations and other trades and industries teachers. 8, 273-279.

Pibal, D. C. (1987). Illinois businesses' utilization of microcomputers: A survey. 9, 103-111.

Pietak, R. (with Butler, A. J.). (1984). COMPETE: A community college response to helping high school graduates help themselves. 6, 51-56.

Pietak, R. A. (with Butler, A. J.). (1985). Helping high school graduates help themselves. 7, 6-14.

Pittman, M. (1985). A selected study of mentors and role models: Implications for health occupations programs. 7, 15-24.

Pletcher, B. (1988). Coordinating a statewide economic development network. 10, 151-156.

Poston, G. H. (1988). Predictors of success for mortuary science and funeral service students. 10, 39-48.

Rath, J. (1988). Meeting training needs for maquila opportunities. 10, 195-197.

Reeder, R. C. (with Miller, H. G.). (1987). Promoting the indigenous private sector in developing countries: The role of higher education. 9, 51-59.

Reep, D. C., & Dambrot, F. H. (1987). Having it all? Career conflicts for television's professional women. 9, 217-223.

Reily, J. (with Hale, L.). (1986). Are vocational teachers technologically up to date? 8, 317-323.

Reneau, F. W., Hahn, D., Legacy, J., & Stitt, T. (1985). An analysis of the computer equipment repair occupation in Illinois. 7, 161-172.

Reneau, F. W., & Noel, R. (1986). Tasks performed by computerized-numerical control programmers and operators. 8, 45-52.

Roth, G. L. (1987). Aligning vocational teacher education with educational reform in Illinois. 9, 167-174.

Roth, G. L. (1986). Making computers neuter in vocational education. 8, 73-79.

Rouda, S. (with Pautler, A., & Thompson, J.). (1988). Postsecondary technical education: The proprietary sector. 10, 61-71.

Roush, R. E., & Thomson, W. A. (1984). An educational paradigm for developing a course on cancer prevention for health profession educators. 6, 112-121.

Roy, W. (with Olsen, P.). (1987). Criteria for selecting CAD/CAM systems. 9, 233-240.

Sanders, C. S. (1988). Economic development: Commitment, communication, and coordination. 10, 117-124.

Sarkees, M. D. (1984). The development of a career guide: An effective tool for career guidance of special populations. 6, 42-50.

Saylor, C. (with Ghanatabadi, J.). (1988). Design and delivery of customized training programs for new and expanding business and industry. 10, 250-258.

Schell, J. W., & Brauchle, P. E. (1986). Time and cost effective process evaluation for employment and training programs. 8, 281-293.

Schlicht, M. (with Jones, B., trans.). (1986). Lifelong learning: Further education in the Federal Republic of Germany. 8, 175-197.

Schmidt, B. J. (1986). 1986 Honeywell Futurist Awards competition. 8, 5-10.

Schultz, J. B. (1988). Issues in vocational education: A reaction. 10, 384-388.

Seidman, P. (with Washburn, J.). (1988). Illinois' high school sophomore self-perceptions of work-related perceptions and abilities. 10, 7-16.

Sharma, M. P. (1984). The value of overseas experiences to the international education program. 6, 177-186.

Sharma, M. P., & Klasek, C. B. (1986). Does the involvement of American institutions of higher education in international programs abroad affect the international attitudes of American students? 8, 295-305.

Sharma, M. P., Klasek, C. B., & Dorn, J. H. (1987). How United States students perceive academic and nonacademic needs of international students. 9, 297-315.

Sharma, M. (with Miller, H. G.). (1986). The sharing of higher education: Learning structures in technical education. 8, 239-247.

Shea, M. L., Boyum, P., & Spanke, M. (1985). A theory of learning styles: Application in the clinical setting. 7, 291-298.

Simon, P. (1986). Let's put America back to work: Guaranteed job opportunities for everyone who wants to work. 8, 265-271.

Skrzekut-Ahlgreen, A. M. E., Troutt, E. D., & Morgan, F. L. (1984). The cooperative effort: Health facilities/JTPA/higher education. 6, 306-312.

Slater, L. (1988). Hands across the border: A look at the maquila opportunity. 10, 181-194.

Slocombe, J. W. (1986). A posttest model for evaluating instructional materials. 8, 122-132.

Snyder, D. P. (1987). Learning for life in revolutionary times: Imperatives for American educators in a decade of techno-economic change. 9, 91-101.

Soderstrom, H. S. (1987). Expectations of the future through technology. 9, 141-149.

Sorg, S. E. (with Lange, R. R., & Fardig, G. E.). (1987). Barriers and policy solutions for statewide implementation of competency-based vocational education. 8, 80-88.

Spanke, M. (with Shea, M. L., & Boyum, P.). (1985). A theory of learning styles: Application in the clinical setting. 7, 291-298.

Stadt, R. D. (1988). Issues in vocational education: A reaction. 10, 407-411.

Stapleton, W. (1985). Maintenance training for pilots? 7, 49-53.

Stewart, B. R., & Heiman, T. (1986). A study of articulation: Secondary and postsecondary programs of vocational agriculture in Missouri. 8, 113-121.

Stitt, W. L. (1984). The human element in office automation. 6, 239-245.

Stitt, T. (with Reneau, F. W., Hahn, D., & Legacy, J.). (1985). An analysis of the computer equipment repair occupation in Illinois. 7, 161-172.

Stivers, C. G. (with Vitello, E. M., & NewMyer, D. A.). (1985). Evaluative ratings of adjunct faculty vs. regular faculty. 7, 143-152.

Stoll, W. F. (1988). New food product development assistance for rural food enterprises. 10, 265-270.

Sullivan, R. L. (1987). Teacher education and the United States postal service: A partnership that works. 9, 345-350.

Sutton, J. (with Beebe, J.). (1985). Computer interfacing for power and energy laboratories. 7, 277-284.

Sutton, J. R. (with Condreay, E. S.). (1984). The case for faculty currency. 6, 296-300.

Swanson, G. I. (1988). Theory and vocational education. 10, 305-325.

Swanson, J. (1986). Technology is changing the way we communicate. 8, 335-341.

Taylor, E. L., & Moore, J. R. (1986). Nontechnical patient care issues and skills: A course proposal for allied health education. 8, 307-316.

Thomas, H. B. (1985). Linking vocational education and industry: Description of a model. 7, 195-204.

Thompson, J. (with Pautler, A., & Rouda, S.). (1988). Postsecondary technical education: The proprietary sector. 10, 61-72.

Thomson, W. A., Holcomb, J. D., & Miller, L. M. (1987). Enhancing career opportunities for students in the health professions through high school apprentice programs. 9, 113-124.

Thomson, W. A. (with Roush, R. E.). (1984). An educational paradigm for developing a course on cancer prevention for health profession educators. 6, 112-121.

Troutt, E. D. (with Skrzekut-Ahlgreen, A. M. E., & Morgan, F. L.). (1984). The cooperative effort: Health facilities/JTPA/higher education. 6, 306-312.

Varney, H. E. (with Mims, R. C.). (1986). A baccalaureate program designed primarily for associate degree graduates and nontraditional learners. 8, 151-157.

Vasek, J. R., & Vogler, D. E. (1984). Microcomputer-assisted instruction: Teacher opportunity. 6, 142-149.

Vitello, E. M., NewMyer, D. A., & Stivers, C. G. (1985). Evaluative ratings of adjunct faculty vs. regular faculty. 7, 143-152.

Vogler, D. E. (1984). Communicating instructional intent. 6, 198-204.

Vogler, D. E., & Armistead, L. P. (1987). The importance of general education courses and competencies as viewed by community college occupational students. 9, 191-200.

Vogler, D. E. (with Vasek, J. R.). (1984). Microcomputer-assisted instruction: Teacher opportunity. 6, 142-149.

Wallace, I. G. (1984). Status of text-editing equipment in selected U. S. schools. 6, 10-20.

Washburn, J., & Seidman, P. (1988). Illinois' high school sophomore self-perceptions of work-related perceptions and abilities. 10, 7-16.

Wellsfry, N. L. (1988). Measuring the economic impact of a community college district. 10, 136-144.

Wentling, R. M. (1987). Teaching employability skills in vocational education. 9, 351-360.

Willis, C. L., & Mayo, N. B. (1988). Determining future job requirements by adapting strategic planning to curriculum revision. 10, 215-227.

Wilson, R. C., & Davis, P. D. (1985). The prediction of success in engineering graphics using the group embedded figures test and the hidden figures test. 7, 65-72.

Wircenski, S. S. (1985). Simulators as training tools in the nuclear industry. 7, 189-194.

Wircenski, S. S. (1985). Vocational-technical education: A key element in the economic development of Taiwan. 7, 269-276.

Yack, J. L. (1987). Copyfitting principles for the novice. 9, 241-253.

Yuen, S. C. (1988). The challenge of microcomputer technology to vocational education. 10, 49-60.

Yuen, C. Y. (with Duo., J. F.). (1985). A challenge: Encouraging students to enter nontraditional vocational programs. 7, 25-33.

Zahniser, G., & Long, J. P. (1984). Microcomputers in vocational education: Current and future uses. 6, 132-141.

Zeigler, D., & Casebeer, A. L. (1986). Telecommunications delivery: A must for higher education. 8, 33-43.

Zeigler, T. W. (1986). Learning technology with the interactive videodisc. 8, 53-60.

Zeigler, T. W. (1987). Self-instruction modules for engineering technology laboratories. 9, 83-89.

Title Index: Volumes VI-X

Winter 1984—Fall 1988

Aligning vocational teacher education with educational reform in Illinois. (1987). G. L. Roth, 9, 167-174.

Allergic consideration in chemoprophylaxis for bacterial endocarditis. (1984). J. R. Elliott, B. Branson, & W. S. McMurry. 6, 224-229.

An analysis of the computer equipment repair occupation in Illinois. (1985). F. W. Reneau, D. Hahn, J. Legacy, & T. Stitt. 7, 161-172.

An analysis of the perceptions of aviation educators concerning non-gineering master's degrees in aviation. (1988). D. A. NewMyer. 10, 17-30.

Applied projects: A boon for business and education. (1987). D. K. Denton. 9, 73-82.

Are vocational special needs issues related to the concept of equity in education? (1988). J. M. Brown, T. F. Kayser, & B. B. Smith. 10, 357-371.

Are vocational teachers technologically up to date? (1986). L. Hale & J. Reily. 8, 317-323.

Assuring competence after licensure. (1986). M. J. Bradley. 8, 167-170.

Aviation-safety courses within the collegiate aviation curriculum. (1987). T. S. Bowman. 9, 31-44.

A baccalaureate program designed primarily for associate degree graduates and nontraditional learners. (1986). R. C. Mims & H. E. Varney. 8, 151-157.

Barriers and policy solutions for statewide implementation of competency-based vocational education. (1986). R. R. Lange, G. E. Fardig., & S. E. Sorg. 8, 80-88.

Benefits of plain English to utilities. (1987). J. Marden-Stephens. 9, 20-22.

The best of times—the worst of times: A new day for educators. (1984). W. S. Dunifon. 6, 81-85.

Billing in plain English. (1987). S. J. Hughes. 9 14-16.

The blurring of the English language. (1987). J. S. Fish. 9, 6-9.

Building public/private training: Partnerships with community colleges. (1984). J. F. McCarthy. 6, 278-281.

The business of the mountain climbing business. (1986). R. F. Harwood. 8, 343-347.

The career education cooperative: Area vocational technical schools and a community college can work together effectively. (1984). R. J. Kopecek & R. G. Clarke. 6, 57-62.

The case of faculty currency. (1984). E. S. Condreay & J. R. Sutton. 6, 296-300.

The case for type 2 error: A researcher's view of power in statistical tests. (1984). P. E. Brauchle. 6, 162-169.

A challenge: Encouraging students to enter nontraditional vocational programs. (1985). J. F. Duo & C. Y. Yuen. 7, 25-33.

The challenge of microcomputer technology to vocational education. (1988). S. C. Yuen. 10, 49-59.

Changes as they affect communications, governmental agencies, and technical education. (1985). H. Cisneros. 7, 1-5.

Communicating instructional intent. (1984). D. E. Vogler. 6, 198-204.

Community college and business partnerships: A statewide model skills program. (1988). D. R. Magruder. 10, 239-249.

The community college as an economic center: An umbrella model. (1988). A. L. Mihelich. 10, 171-177.

Community colleges and economic development. (1988). Report of the NCOE Task Force. 10, 91-106.

Community colleges as catalysts in economic development. (1988). R. T. Mundhenk. 10, 107-116.

COMPETE: A community college response to helping high school graduates help themselves. (1984). A. J. Butler & R. A. Pietak, 6, 51-56.

The competencies, training loci, job qualifications, and company training of word processing operators. (1986). S. Barton. 8, 11-23.

Competition between community colleges and postsecondary proprietary schools: Reality or myth? (1987). B. H. Levin & D. A. Clowes. 9, 317-324.

Computer industry technology: A partnership that works. (1984). T. Boldrey. 6, 313-317.

Computer interfacing for power and energy laboratories. (1985). J. Beebe & J. Sutton. 7, 277-284.

The concerns-based adoption model: Implications for institutionalization of change in technical training programs. (1984). J. A. Cantor. 6, 205-213.

The construct of generalizable skills for assessing the functional learning abilities of students in vocational-technical programs. (1984). J. P. Greenan. 6, 91-104.

The cooperative effort: Health facilities/JTPA/higher education. (1984). A. M. E. Skrzekut-Ahlgreen, E. D. Troutt, & F. L. Morgan. 6, 306-312.

Coordinating a statewide economic development network. (1988). B. Pletcher. 10, 151-156.
Coordination for workplace education. (1987). R. L. Butler. 9, 151-154.
Copyfitting principles for the novice. (1987). J. L. Yack. 9, 241-253.
Creaming, dredging, and labeling: Federal policy for training workers. (1988). R. N. Evans. 10, 349-356.
Criteria for selecting CAD/CAM systems. (1987). P. Olsen & W. Roy. 9, 233-240.
A curriculum model for a health program requiring internship. (1986). S. Baker. 8, 223-230.
Descriptive data on small hospitals and their technical laboratory personnel. (1987). S. A. Baker, 9, 45-50.
Design and delivery of customized training programs for new and expanding business and industry. (1988). J. Ghanatabadi & C. Saylor. 10, 250-258.
Determining future job requirements by adapting strategic planning to curriculum revision. (1988). C. L. Willis & N. B. Mayo. 10, 215-227.
Developing a regional economic development agency. (1988). D. Kozlowski. 10, 167-170.
Developing customized programs for steel and other heavy industries: A case study. (1984). P. R. Day. 6, 269-277.
The development of a career guide: An effective tool for career guidance of special populations. (1984). M. D. Sarkees. 6, 42-50.
Does the involvement of American institutions of higher education in international programs abroad affect the international attitudes of American students? (1986). M. P. Sharma & C. B. Klasek. 8, 295-305.
Economic development: A community college faces the challenge. (1988). J. Crowley & J. Boatright. 10, 201-205.
Economic development: Commitment, communication, and coordination. (1988). C. S. Sanders. 10, 117-124.
Education, training, and beyond. (1988). R. H. Beck. 10, 336-348.
Educational expansion and economic development in Kenya. (1986). G. Godia. 8, 61-72.
An educational paradigm for developing a course on cancer prevention for health professions educators. (1984). R. E. Roush & W. A. Thomson. 6, 112-121.
Effective technical communication: Issues and objectives. (1987). K. Hyatt. 9, 225-231.
Electronic spreadsheets: A means for improving managerial techniques. (1985). D. J. Oscarson. 7, 125-132.
Emerging patterns of cooperative arrangements. (1984). J. A. Greenberg. 6, 250-256.

Emerging themes and new partnerships for educational research in the eighties. (1984). M. J. Justiz. 6, 1-9.

Employee involvement: An ergonomic key. (1988). H. Perreault & S. Ballestro. 10, 81-87.

Enhancing career opportunities for students in the health professions through a high school apprentice program. (1987). W. A. Thomson, J. D. Holcomb & L. M. Miller. 9, 113-124.

Evaluation of an agriculture/agribusiness management instructional unit. (1985). R. J. Birkenholz & A. A. Kahler. 7, 241-248.

An evaluation of the Missouri Career Association by first-year participants. (1986). W. S. Holmes & J. E. Elias. 8, 133-144.

Evaluative ratings of adjunct faculty vs. regular faculty. (1985). E. M. Vitello, D. A. NewMyer, & C. G. Stivers. 7, 143-152.

An exemplary dislocated worker center. (1988). A. L. Mihelich. 10, 206-214.

Expanding market share: The role of American corporations in technical assistance. (1985). S. B. Andrews & H. G. Miller. 7, 261-268.

Expectations of the future through technology. (1987). H. S. Soderstrom. 9, 141-149.

Expected occupational prestige of students in vocational programs nontraditional for their sex. (1985). S. M. Culver & P. L. Burge. 7, 231-240.

A follow-up study of campus and military-based industrial technology graduates. (1984). L. A. Doty & L. J. Bailey. 6, 32-41.

A framework for developing vocational education theory and practice. (1988). E. A. Nelson & A. J. Pautler. 10, 326-335.

The future of secondary school vocational education: Curriculum reform or retrenchment—basic academic or technical skills. (1988). J. A. Dunn. 10, 372-383.

The future of technical careers. (1984). W. S. Dunlap. 6, 150-154.

GLOBUS takes off into the future: Initial simulations with world model computer. (1986). R. L. Mrescher. 8, 1-4.

Hands across the border: A look at the maquila opportunity. (1988). L. Slater. 10, 181-194.

Having it all? Career conflicts for television's professional women. (1987). D. C. Reep & F. H. Dambrot. 9, 217-223.

Helping high school graduates help themselves. (1985). A. J. Butler & R. A. Pietak. 7, 6-14.

The hidden factors behind Japan's highly productive management methods. (1984). L. S. Dillon. 6, 122-131.

Higher education for employment: Curricular dynamics for emerging careers. (1984). H. G. Miller. 6, 155-161.

1986 Honeywell Futurist Awards competition. (1986). B. J. Schmidt. 8, 5-10.

How to muddle through with purpose—managing in a turbulent environment. (1986). T. L. Barnes. 8, 159-166.

How United States students perceive academic and nonacademic needs of international students. (1987). M. P. Sharma, C. B. Klasek, & J. H. Dorn. 9, 297-315.

The human element in office automation. (1984). W. L. Stitt. 6, 239-245.

Illinois businesses' utilization of microcomputers: A survey. (1987). D. C. Pibal. 9, 103-111.

Illinois' high school sophomore self-perceptions of work-related perceptions and abilities. (1988. J. Washburn & P. Seidman. 10, 7-16.

The importance of general education courses and competencies as viewed by community occupational students. (1987). D. E. Vogler & L. P. Armistead. 9, 191-200.

Increasing collaboration between vocational education and the defense establishment. (1986). D. M. Clark, A. B. Chalupsky, & M. R. Daldorf, 8, 325-334.

The industry-education structure and process for fostering education reform. (1984). D. M. Clark, 6, 247-249.

International home economics students critique U. S. collegiate programs. (1984). D. L. Cunningham & P. L. Burge. 6, 170-176.

Issues in vocational education: A reaction. (1988). J. D. Anderson. 10, 402-406.

Issues in vocational education: A reaction. (1988). D. L. Passmore. 10, 396-401.

Issues in vocational education: A reaction. (1988). J. B. Schultz. 10, 384-388.

Issues in vocational education: A reaction. (1988). R. D. Stadt. 10, 407-411.

Job skills, overeducated workers: An imbalance. (1984). B. Blai. 6, 230-238.

The JTPA connection for partnerships in job training: Observations and case study. (1984). P. E. Brauchle. 6, 301-305.

JTPA supports the shipbuilding industry. (1985). J. A. Cantor. 7, 205-213.

A learning assistance program for students of technical colleges. (1987). D. S. Owen. 9, 65-72.

Learning for life in revolutionary times: Imperatives for American educators in a decade of techno-economic change. (1987). D. P. Snyder. 9, 91-101.

Learning technology with the interactive videodisc. (1986). T. W. Zeigler. 8, 53-60.

The least restrictive environment in vocational-technical education: Theory and practice. (1985). J. P. Greenan. 7, 179-188.

Let's put America back to work: Guaranteed job opportunities for everyone who wants to work. (1986). P. Simon. 8, 265-271.

The liberating versus controlling arguments about vocational education: How relevant to the future? (1988). K. B. Greenwood. 10, 273-285.

Lifelong learning: Further education in the Federal Republic of Germany. (1986). M. Schlicht (author) & B. Jones (trans.). 8, 175-197.

A linkage between education and industry in computer-aided design and drafting instruction. (1984). J. Davey & V. Jellech. 6, 292-295.

Linkages betweeen the Federal Aviation Administration and postsecondary aviation education: The case of Southern Illinois University. (1984). D. A. NewMyer & T. S. Bowman. 6, 261-268.

Linking vocational education and industry: Description of a model. (1985). H. B. Thomas. 7, 195-204.

Maintenance training for pilots? (1985). W. Stapleton. 7, 49-53.

Making computers neuter in vocational education. (1986). G. L. Roth. 8, 73-79.

Making connections between the classroom and the workplace. (1985). D. H. Cunningham. 7, 221-230.

Management practices associated with effective postsecondary general advisory committees for occupational education. (1984). B. P. Dunn & J. L. Hoerner. 6, 282-291.

Measuring the economic impact of a community college district. (1988). N. L. Wellsfry. 10, 136-144.

Meeting training needs for maquila opportunities. (1988). J. Rath. 10, 195-197.

Microcomputer-assisted instruction: Teacher opportunity. (1984). J. R. Vasek & D. E. Vogler. 6, 142-149.

Microcomputer instructional competencies: A ranking by business teachers. (1984). L. Echternacht. 6, 105-111.

Microcomputers in vocational education: Current and future uses. (1984). G. Zahniser & J. P. Long. 6, 132-141.

Motivating cooperative education students on the job. (1987). K. K. Eschenmann. 9, 339-344.

Needs assessment for effective planning of curricula in dental technology education. (1987). P. M. Kimondollo. 9, 281-295.

Needs of vocational programs in teaching interpersonal skills. (1986). J. P. Greenan & R. D. Amick. 8, 25-32.

New food product development assistance for rural food enterprises. (1988). W. F. Stoll. 10, 265-270.

A new look at performance objectives in trade and technical education. (1987). L. G. Duenk. 9, 255-266.

A new look at two established teaching methods. Case studies and role playing. (1987). L. R. Greathouse & J. S. Karmos. 9, 361-367.

Nontechnical patient care issues and skills: A course proposal for allied health education. (1986). E. L. Taylor & J. R. Moore. 8, 307-316.
Nontraditional and traditional education, not a polarity. (1987). D. J. Daniel. 9, 135-139.
Nurses as managers: Alternatives to conflict. (1987). A. C. Meadors & C. T. Dick. 9, 61-64.
Observations on apprenticeships, entrepreneurships, and intrapreneurships. (1986). R. L. Butler. 8, 253-259.
Occupational analysis: A technique for developing task lists. (1986). K. K. Eschenmann. 8, 231-238.
On the meaning of "vocational" education. (1988). G. Copa. 10, 286-304.
Organizational climate: An analysis of factors and influences. (1986). L. Grace. 8, 209-222.
The paradoxical role of the department chair. (1986). P. H. Jarczewski. 8, 249-252.
The partnership between U. S. higher education and developing countries' needs: Fact or fiction? (1985). F. Klein. 7, 42-48.
Partnerships in economic development. (1988). E. J. Luterbach & D. K. Dary. 10, 259-264.
The past, present, and future of plain English. (1987). C. Felsenfeld. 9, 1-5.
Perception of student rewards by vocational students and teachers. (1984). D. A. Mohamed & D. L. Passmore. 6, 29-31.
Plain English and creativity in advertising. (1987). J. Chervokas. 9, 26-29.
Plain English helps the financial services industry. (1987). M. J. McGrath. 9, 23-25.
Plain English in owner manuals and user guides. (1987). L. L. Gray. 9, 17-19.
Plain English in warranties. (1987). D. A. Collins. 9, 10-13.
Postsecondary technical education: The proprietary sector. (1988). A. Pautler, S. Rouda, & J. Thompson. 10, 61-72.
A posttest model for evaluating instructional materials. (1986). J. W. Slocombe. 8, 122-132.
The prediction of success in engineering graphics using the group embedded figures test and the hidden figures test. (1985). R. C. Wilson & P. D. Davis. 7, 65-72.
Predictors of success for mortuary science and funeral service students. (1988). G. H. Poston. 10, 39-48.
Program for advanced curriculum entry: A two-year degree in one. (1985). D. Davis & B. Morgan. 7, 113-117.
Project STATUS: A synergistic approach. (1988). G. W. Bilderback & T. C. Leitzel. 10, 228-238.

Promoting the indigenous private sector in developing countries: The role of higher education. (1987). H. G. Miller & R. C. Reeder. 9, 51-59.

Psychological attributes of training professionals and their preferences for project and organizational characteristics. (1987). N. J. Kadunc. 9, 325-338.

Psycho-organizational change: A new perspective for the change agent. (1987). K. McKerrow. 9, 125-133.

Questioning modern certainties. (1988). I. Illich. 10, 1-5.

Readiness for work, readiness for life. (1985). W. J. Bennett, 7, 137-142.

Relationships among the armed service vocational aptitude battery (ASVAB) and the PSAT, SAT, and ACT. (1986). B. E. Douglas. 8, 199-207.

A retrospective view of selective admission of physical therapist assistants. (1986). C. D. Paper & J. P. Casey. 8, 105-112.

The role of baccalaureate programs in health services administration. (1984). A. C. Meadors. 6, 214-218.

The role of the state approving agency. (1987). B. C. Dickinson. 9, 273-279.

School reform: What about vocational education at the secondary level? (1986). A. J. Pautler. 8, 91-97.

Secondary vocation education at the crossroads. (1985). A. J. Pautler. 7, 91-97.

"Seek and ye shall find . . . What?" An investigation of the process of applying for vocational services. (1985). S. Juni & B. Katz. 7, 249-260.

A selected study of mentors and role models: Implications for health occupations programs. (1985). M. Pittman. 7, 15-24.

Self-instruction modules for engineering technology laboratories. (1987). T. W. Zeigler. 9, 83-89.

The sharing of higher education: Learning structures in technical education. (1986). H. G. Miller & M. Sharma. 8, 239-247.

Short-term foreign travel/study. (1985). D. Hays & K. Grise. 7, 34-41.

Simulators as training tools in the nuclear industry. (1985). S. S. Wircenski. 7, 189-194.

Some beliefs shared by the Japanese people: Implications for the workplace. (1985). L. S. Dillon. 7, 118-124.

A statewide model for a system wide community college economic development program. (1988). L. T. Burger. 10, 157-165.

Statistical process control: The competitive edge. (1988). R. J. Berthelot. 10, 125-135.

Status of text-editing equipment in selected U. S. schools. (1984). I. G. Wallace. 6, 10-20.

A study of articulation: Secondary and postsecondary programs of vocational agriculture in Missouri. (1986). B. R. Stewart & T. Heiman. 8, 113-121.

Supporting hearing-impaired students in postsecondary accounting classes. (1985). W. J. DiCicco. 7, 285-290.

A survey of communications skills needed on-the-job by technical students. (1985). C. M. Painter. 7, 153-160.

Survey of infection control policies within dental/educational patient treatment centers. (1986). K. W. Dickey. 8, 98-104.

Surveying gifted students for high technology programs. (1984). B. E. Johnson. 6, 86-90.

A systems approach to instructional development in technical education. (1987). J. A. Cantor. 9, 155-166.

Taming economics and democracy: A crucial task for education. (1985). J. K. Keeling. 7, 59-64.

Tasks performed by computerized-numerical control programmers and operators. (1986). F. W. Reneau & R. Noel. 8, 45-52.

Teacher education and the United States postal service: A partnership that works. (1987). R. Sullivan. 9, 345-350.

Teaching business communications: A comparison of teaching by the traditional writing and the word processing methods. (1984). M. Giovannini & F. M. Miller. 6, 21-28.

Teaching employability skills in vocational education. (1987). R. M. Wentling. 9, 351-360.

A technical administrator's list for program cost control. (1985). M. W. McLeod & W. L. Lemons. 7, 214-219.

Technical assistance projects in developing countries: The role of public universities. (1985). H. G. Miller & E. H. Merritt. 7, 73-80.

Technical colleges join rapid response team to lessen effects of plant closings in South Carolina. (1984). B. Fleischman. 6, 257-260.

Technical education in a society of systems. (1987). R. Hedberg. 9, 181-189.

Technical writing in a distributed word processing environment. (1988). B. J. Gravlin. 10, 73-79.

Technology is changing the way we communicate. (1986). J. Swanson. 8, 335-341.

Telecommunications delivery: A must for higher education. (1986). D. Zeigler & A. L. Casebeer. 8, 33-43.

Theory and vocational education. (1988). G. I. Swanson. 10, 305-325.

A theory of learning styles: Application in the clinical setting. (1985). M. L. Shea, P. Boyum, & M. Spanke. 7, 291-298.

Time and cost effective process evaluation for employment and training programs. (1986). J. W. Schell & P. E. Brauchle. 8, 281-293.

Tool and manufacturing programs for today's high technology manufacturing industries. (1984). R. R. Ferketich. 6, 63-66.

Transformation of American industry: Statistical process control. (1988). J. Frost. 10, 145-149.

Trends and issues in vocational technical education in Francophone West Africa. (1985). A. Kogoe. 7, 81-90.

University-based executive education: A study of clientele at graduate colleges of business administration. (1988). F. Maidment. 10, 31-38.

Uses of the occupational data analysis system. (1986). M. A. Kercher. 8, 145-150.

Using student organizations in postsecondary technical education. (1984). J. Hillison. 6, 219-223.

The validation of generalizable communication skills assessment instruments for students with handicapping conditions. (1987). J. P. Greenan & D. A. Browning. 9, 201-215.

The value of overseas experiences to the international education program. (1984). M. P. Sharma. 6, 177-186.

Vertical articulation of occupational education from secondary schools to community colleges. (1985). C. R. Doty. 7, 98-112.

Views of a maquila manager. (1988). T. Burns. 10, 198-200.

Vocational education and high technology. (1984). A. C. Gilli. 6, 187-197.

Vocational-technical education: A key element in the economic development of Taiwan. (1985) S. S. Wircenski. 7, 269-276.

Whither vocational education? (1988). H. Kantor. 10, 389-395.

Women as managers: An overview. (1985). J. Orr. 7, 173-178.

Work attitudes of health occupations and other trades and industries teachers. (1986). G. C. Petty & C. P. Campbell. 8, 273-279.

1.0
1.1
1.25
1.4
1.6
2.8
2.5
3.2
2.2
3.6
2.0
4.0
1.8